Glendale, California April 12, 2007- The new website for the Armenia School Foundation (ASF), located at <http://www.armeniaschoolfoundation.org/> was launched in Glendale during its first public meeting, with the objective of providing easy access to the foundation's projects for schools in various regions of Armenia and Karabakh.

“Our new website will allow donors, community members and future corporate partners, to have access to information about our foundation” said Armen Abrahamian, Board Chairman of ASF, “our on-going and future projects are concentrated on various regions, so having the information in one place on the internet is vital and interesting.”

The new ASF website also provides a brief history, and allows the charitable-giving public to contact the foundation's members by e-mail, for any questions, ideas, or comments. It will provide an easy access to those who want to make a donation, adopt a project to support its cause, or to volunteer to participate in some way. The website features a video as well as extensive images and photos of schools, projects and the production process.

“We are grateful for the overwhelming response and encouragement received by the community, contributors and corporations” said Mr. Abrahamian, “with so many interested parties, a comprehensive website describing our activities was really the only way to keep the information current and flowing.”

The Armenia School Foundation (ASF) is a non-profit and non-sectarian, 501(c) 3 organization, founded in May 2003. ASF strives to provide new furniture for underprivileged schools in remote regions of Armenia and to enhance the learning process.
